Self-Reflection Examination of Your Spiritual Health

Trust in God

Jesus Christ was subjected to punishment and died for our sins as humankind. He was sent by God the Father to fulfil the prophecy prophesied in the early times by the prophets of God. He has judged the land's rulers and tortured them before being crucified between the two thieves. The suffering and torture that Jesus underwent was a manifestation of the sins of humankind within the society (Rom5:12). The blood He shed on the cross symbolised the forgiveness of wickedness among human beings. In this light, I am justified before God through my belief and trust in Jesus Christ as saviour.

Obedience to God

Obedience to God is exhibited through strict follow up for the ten commandments within the scripture as provided by God. I obey God's commandments through cessation of worshipping other gods, avoiding the aspect of taking God's name in vain, maintaining and keeping the sabbath day holy, honouring my parents, not committing the acts of murder, and not stealing. All in all, I obey the commandments of God by showing love to other people around me. I demonstrate the faithfulness of God by exhibiting the unwavering trust in Him and learning to embrace love and respect to other people around me (Jam 2:18-24). I also show faith by isolating myself from the incidences of evil patterns of the world.

Growth in Holiness

I am growing in holiness through the actions and behaviour that I exhibit towards the faith and commandments of God. I develop my righteousness when I engage in activities that provoke my sinful nature in society. The activities that shun the evil desires that I may portray result in my holiness status. I also developed my holy level by accepting Jesus Christ and letting the sacred spirit control my life's occurrences and actions. I noticed an increase in the desire to be like Jesus Christ (Rom 8:30). The changes have improved my relationship with God and shunned the previous evil acts. The changes have enabled me to treat other individuals with love and humility.

The Fruit of the Holy Spirit

The fruit of the holy spirit is manifested in diverse forms within my life through the actions and thoughts that I exhibit. Personally, the fruit is revealed by showing love and goodness to other people within the society to the less fortunate individuals (Joh 3:14). This is practically exhibited through giving and providing support to the orphanage. I continually enhance and create a peaceful environment around me.

Love for the Other Christians

I love other Christians in society, and my love is more than the feelings exhibited within the people. I serve other Christians within the community by subjecting to the prayers and forgiveness of all the acts that they may have subjected me towards. I also perform other Christians by showing them the acts of kindness and humility within the environment (Eph 1:13). I also serve them by encouraging them to do all that is good for the kingdom of God.

Positive Influence on Others

My life has exposed most of the individuals within society to a transformative nature through its influence. My life has a positive impact on other individuals through the teachings that I provide to the community on faith and God's Holy will. I also lead by example in all the actions I undertake within the society (Mat 5:16). The nature of my life, which entails engaging people in open and mutually beneficial conversations, results in a positive influence on others.

Adherence to the Tenets of the Scripture

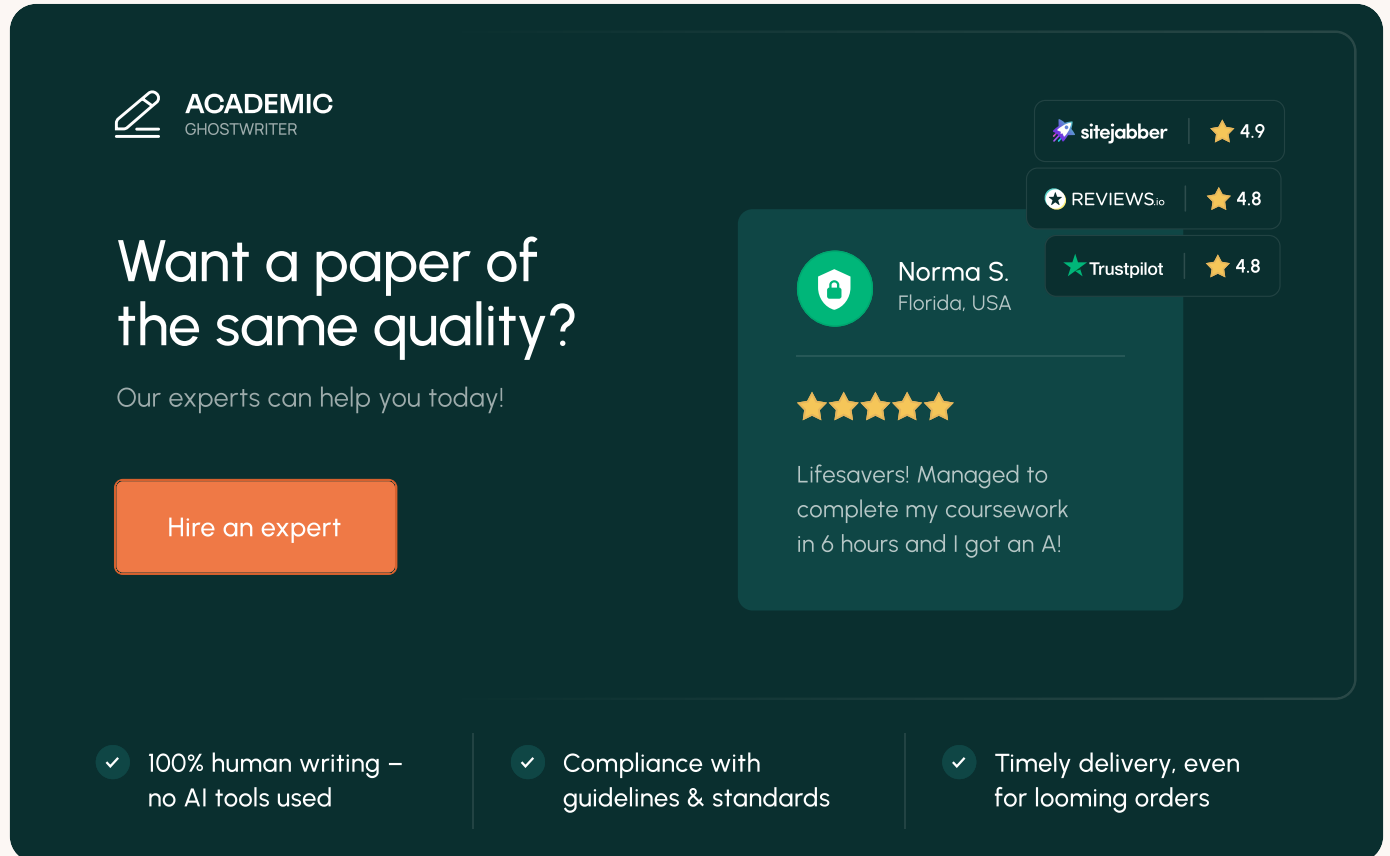

My religious beliefs are solely based on the Christian faith, including trusting in one God the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. My faith is also based on the death and resurrection of the body of Jesus Christ that was crucified and died and buried and later on ascended into heaven. I also believe in the second coming of Jesus Christ during judgement day. My beliefs conform to the teachings and tenets of the scripture.

Testimony of the Holy Spirit

I view God through all the life's circumstances that I exhibit within society. I view Him through my desires, motives, activities, behaviour, and attitude. I believe that all the elements above of my life are influenced by God Himself through a diverse perception (Rom 8:15-16). I think of God as the creator of heaven and earth with all that is within the two spheres. He is my loving heavenly Father.
